DESCRIPTION

Located in the thriving village of Kidlington, Oxfordshire, The Six Bells sits in a prime and picturesque location. As one of the most established pubs in the area, it enjoys a loyal local following and steady visitor footfall thanks to its close proximity to Oxford, Blenheim Palace, and the Cotswolds. With excellent transport links including the A34, M40, and Oxford Parkway station, it remains easily accessible for both locals and tourists alike. With very few comparable venues in the immediate area, The Six Bells presents a rare opportunity to take on a characterful, community-focused pub in a highly sought-after location.

Pub Layout

Full of charm and traditional appeal, The Six Bells is a Grade II listed building that blends seamlessly with the surrounding village. Guests are welcomed through the main entrance into a cosy and inviting interior, complete with exposed beams, an open fireplace, and a centrally located bar. The open-plan trading area features a mix of intimate seating spaces, ideal for everything from casual drinks to small group dining. The layout allows for smooth operation with manageable staffing. To the rear, a large beer garden provides additional space for guests to enjoy during the warmer months, perfect for hosting community events, family gatherings, and seasonal activities. The pub also includes a catering kitchen, offering the opportunity to introduce or expand a simple food offer tailored to the local market.

TRADING STYLE

The Six Bells is a welcoming village pub known for its traditional charm, exposed beams, and open fire. It currently runs as a wet-led business with loyal local support and features a spacious open-plan layout, a central bar, and a popular rear beer garden. While the kitchen is fully equipped, food trade is minimal offering a great opportunity to introduce a locally inspired menu. With steady trade and strong community ties, The Six Bells offers great potential for growth for a licensee to build on its already solid foundations.
